

The NRLI Class Challenge is a unique opportunity for NRLI alumni to give back to a program that has provided each of us with so many valuable skills and learning experiences, so that other natural resource professionals may benefit from the program in the future. The Challenge is a Class verse Class competition where each of the nine NRLI classes competes against one another to raise money for scholarships for future NRLI fellows. Each class has always thought their class has been the best; here's your opportunity to prove it!

Challenge Rules:

- The competition starts September 1st and runs for three months ending November 30th, 2010.
- Fellows can donate money themselves or have sponsors (organizations and/or other individuals) donate money on behalf of their class as often as they would like.

All donations are tax deductible!

NEW! You can now donate online!

P.O. Box 110240
Gainesville, FL, 32611-0240

Please make checks payable to the University of Florida Leadership and Education Foundation with NRLI and desired class number in the memo line.

- The NRLI class that totals the highest amount in monetary donations by 5PM on November 30th, 2010 will be declared the winner of the NRLI Class Challenge.
- The winning NRLI class will be posted on the NRLI Alumni Association website, and will get first choice to the block of free hotel rooms designated for NRLI alumni during the Class X graduation the weekend of April 14-16, 2011. They will also be presented with a special award during the NRLI Class X graduation ceremony.
- There will also be a special award given to the class that has the greatest percentage of its fellows participate in the competition.

Thank you for your support and good luck! May the best NRLI class win!
